

NSG 408: Family Community Health Nursing III

The epidemiological prevention process, community theory and family theory provide the basis for nursing care in the community. This course emphasizes application of this knowledge base to improve the health of the community through planning and effective use of the health care resources. Emphasis will be placed on achieving positive outcomes of nursing management for individuals, families, and specific population groups through dynamic interdisciplinary practice.

Credits: 6

Prerequisites:

NSG 325 for RN students

Co-Requisites:

NSG 408A, NSG 408B, NSG 408L

Program: NSG